

UC Merced Writing Project Community Literacy Series

"STUDENT EXPRESSION AND HIP-HOP CULTURE"

FEATURING ELIZABETH NORRIS
AND ED CAMPOS JR.

UCM Writing Project Goals

- Support literacy initiatives, teacher preparation, and writing across the curriculum from Kindergarten through university.
- Encourage community literacy throughout Merced County.
- Host annual “Un-Conferences” that encourage educator networking and informal roundtables on diverse foci.
- Relaunch Bobcat Academy, a summer writing program for local K-12 students.
- Offer opportunities to develop teacher leaders and for earning Writing Project teacher leader badges.

Contact Us

Heather Devrick, UCM Writing Project Managing Director and Continuing Lecturer, Merritt Writing Program, UC Merced: hdevrick@ucmerced.edu

Anne Zanzucchi, UCM Writing Project Co-Director and Associate Dean of SSHA, UC Merced: azanzucchi@ucmerced.edu

Paul Gibbons, UCM Writing Project Co-Director and Associate Teaching Professor of Writing Studies: pgibbons@ucmerced.edu

Upcoming Events: Community Literacy Speaker Events in February and April. Un-Conference 2022 in late January or early February. More information provided at a later date.

<https://writingproject.ucmerced.edu/>

“Student Expression and Hip-Hop Culture”

- Elizabeth Norris, principal at JC Montgomery and a consultant for Kings County Office of Education.
- Ed Campos, Jr., consultant for the Kings County Office of Education and former president of Central Valley CUE.
- Presenting on their work with student voice, Hip Hop culture, and system-impacted youth.